his condition, and no one wanted to put any more bullets in the body of the dying wretch. A young man who stood near the door of the corridor pulled a revolver from his pocket and handing it to the elderly man said: "I've a gun—will it do?"

The elderly man took the pistol and poked it in his hand for a moment, took deliberate aim and fired. As the bullet struck the wounded man he started up suddenly, threw back his head, gave a groan and died.

Much interest is felt in the question of what the Grand Jury will do in the matter of the lynching. Several of the members believe the Parish Prison yesterday and took camera views of the portions connected with Saturday's tragedy event. Some action is expected from the body either to-day or to-morrow.

As for the petit jury which rendered the miscarious verdict, its foreman, Jacob Sellman, was quietly escorted to a Queen and Crescent train, yesterday, and started off for Cincinnati.

It is declared to be known that Sellman went upon the jury with a considerable sum of money in his possession. His methods of communication with the outside world are considered. It is charged that jurors Holman and Duggan were also fixed before they went into the jury room. Most of the other jurors were mere boys, persons without standing in the community or men easily led.

Trotter, Berry and Mackey and others were believed to have been fixed, and no interest was taken and allowed themselves to be swayed by the positive stand of the others, but stopped at the proposition to liberate all the accused.

The six men who insisted in the general acquittal have been keeping out of sight since the violence of the popular feeling broke forth. Only one Italian flag was visible about the city yesterday, and that was on the mast of a Macheena steamship. On Friday afternoon and on Saturday morning, before the lynching, the Italian colors had been abundantly displayed, in one direction the flag of the Republic and in the other the flag of the United States.

The New Orleans lynchings discredit the people of the United States, who pride themselves on being a shrewd, business-like people, yet sit quietly by while judge and jury carry on a traffic in the sale of acquittals, as if they were sales of cotton.

Indignation and Astonishment Expressed in Italy.
BY CABLE TO THE PRESS ASSOCIATION.
LONDON, March 16.—The St. James's Gazette, commenting on the New Orleans lynching, says: "No reasonable man can doubt that the Italian acquittal of Kennedy's death had a guilty knowledge of it, or that the verdict was an infamous one, whether it was bought for a price, as the lynchings declare, or was brought about by the personal cowardice of the jurors, who feared the revenge of the mob."

The New Orleans lynchings discredit the people of the United States, who pride themselves on being a shrewd, business-like people, yet sit quietly by while judge and jury carry on a traffic in the sale of acquittals, as if they were sales of cotton.

Not the least remarkable feature of the affair is the almost unanimous approval of the lynching by press and public. This indicates a feeling which it will be difficult for people outside the city immediately affected to understand, even as it will be to the same outsiders hard to see how such a feeling could be so general. The son of an eminent Judge, and James D. Houston, a wealthy and substantial citizen, could have brought themselves to lead the mob.

New York Italians to Hold a Mass-Meeting Wednesday Night.
Arrangements are being made to-day for a mass-meeting of Italian residents on Wednesday night, at the Hotel de Ville, New Orleans, Mo., and the expressions at the gathering promise to be of a fiery sort.

The local Italian papers publish the most inflammatory articles in large black type, and under this urging the feeling in the Italian colony runs very high; but the prompt action of the State Department, at Washington, in recognition of the Italian Government's protest, will have a quieting effect, it is thought.

At the office of L'Espresso Italiano-Americano it was said this morning that telegrams from citizens all over the country, denouncing the lynching, were being received.

The editor of L'Espresso stated that he anticipated no trouble at the mass-meeting, even if the speeches were strong. Said he: "The mass-meeting will be a gathering of an orderly lot of people, who will petition the home Government to seek redress for the murder of their countrymen."

Complications That Stagger the Oldest Diplomats at Washington.
(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
WASHINGTON, March 16.—No news is obtainable to-day at the State Department in regard to the New Orleans massacre, all that is vouchsafed being the statement that the State is exerting its utmost to the utmost to gather from an official source all the facts in the case, with the view of making reply to the Italian Government.

The complications stagger the oldest diplomats here. Not a man of them is able to recall any case of a like character in the history of nations.

The President, it is held, can do but little. He cannot order the arrest of the members of the mob, nor in any way interfere with the local authorities in Louisiana. The question, as it now stands, is thought to rest entirely with the cabinet.

The Grand Jury must first be looked to, and should it fail or refuse to act, there would appear to be no remedy, so far as the National Government is concerned, but to express its sincere regret to the Italian Government.

The General Government has no power to take the case out of the hands of the State Government, or to punish the offenders, if the State should fail to do so.

The question of indemnification for loss to the families of the murdered men will come up later. The families of those of the dead men who were American citizens will look to the State of Louisiana for redress, while the

Two Big Parades in New York and Brooklyn To-Morrow.

To Celebrate the Birth of Ireland's Patron Saint.

To-morrow will be a great day for the sons of old Ireland, and the day is, too, for the celebration of the birthday of the patron saint of the Emerald Isle, St. Patrick's Day.

Both New York and Brooklyn will be gay with green ribbons and bunting, and monster parades bright with color and filling the air with patriotic music will impress the beholders with the fact that it is, indeed, a holiday.

There will be two parades in this city and also in Brooklyn. Mayor Grant has ordered Mr. J. Keen, Keeper of the City Hall, to run up the National and State flags and also to display the flag of Erin.

In Brooklyn, the Aldermen have authorized the expenditure of $400 in the decoration of the City Hall and Municipal Buildings.

The biggest parade in this city will be that under the auspices of the Convention of Irish Societies. The line of the procession will be formed at Washington Square Park, right across on Eighth street and Fifth avenue. It will be led by John Calahan, Grand Marshal, with John J. Dixon as First Aid and Felix McGovern, Second Aid.

The Grand Marshal's special aides are: First, Michael Doran; Second, Thomas Carey, and Third, Michael McCarroll. The following aides from the societies have been appointed by the Grand Marshal:

First Aid, Daniel McCormack, Michael Carey, Patrick Connelley, Thomas Kehoe, John McCormack, John Flood, Christopher Healy, Charles McDermott, Michael Leonard, William Leddy, Edward J. Murphy, Matthew Fitzsimmons, Charles Clark, Michael Kelly, Thomas O'Brien, John J. Brown, Nicholas McEneaney, Dennis Gieraghty, Charles Murphy, Michael Mahoney, Thomas Woods, William Dowd, James Kelly, Michael Flood, Thomas McConnelly, Michael Moore, Thomas H. Farley.

They will be followed by coaches containing the officers of the Convention of Irish Societies and guests. The societies will take positions in the following order: The Ancient Order of Hibernians, New York County, forty-eight divisions.
